

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to methods for copying and amplifying complex populations of mRNA molecules. Specifically, the invention relates to methods for copying and amplifying complex populations of mRNA molecules that maximize the retention of representative information in populations of copied mRNA molecules.